The Honorable Liz Murrill
Louisiana Attorney General
Post Office Box 94005
Baton Rouge, LA 70804

Dear Governor Landry and Attorney General Murrill;

As a New York resident taxpayer and leader of the largest pro-life medical network in the state, thank you for filing suit against New York State and Gov. Kathy Hochul for violating your state sovereignty.

But I urge you to go further.

If public officials, abortion providers, telemedicine companies, pharmaceutical manufacturers, and other actors are knowingly coordinating interstate activity to frustrate Louisiana law and profit from illegal abortions, the obvious question is: Does this conduct warrant a federal racketeering investigation?

And where legally justified, should officials such as New York Gov. Kathy Hochul and Attorney General Letitia James face liability personally rather than in their official capacities?

As a New York citizen, I applaud your efforts. But litigation aimed only at states and government offices risks leaving taxpayers with the bill while the individuals and private corporations responsible for unlawful conduct escape accountability.

As the CEO of CompassCare, the team and I have experienced the abortion industry corruption firsthand. Gov. Hochul signed legislation authorizing an investigation affecting pro-life pregnancy centers; AG James sued CompassCare and others over the provision of abortion-pill reversal; Google restricted abortion-pill-reversal advertising following pressure from AG James and others; and CompassCare's Buffalo office was firebombed by domestic terrorists during the wave of attacks against pro-life organizations following the leak of the Dobbs opinion—and there have been no arrests.

New York, as the nation's abortion headquarters, has declared war on pro-life state sovereignty. Conduct warranting federal scrutiny in this interstate conflict includes the implementation of Shield Laws to prevent your state from pursuing justice on abortionists who break your laws and harm your citizens, born and preborn; refusing to extradite those indicted under felony charges in your state, such as Dr. Margaret Daley Carpenter; and knowingly conspiring to and facilitating the shipment of chemical abortion pills across state lines, conduct interfering with your State's sovereign authority under the Constitution while violating state laws.

On May 14, 2026, dissenting from the Court's grant of a stay in Danco Laboratories, LLC v. Louisiana, Justice Clarence Thomas wrote:

“Applicants are not entitled to a stay of an adverse court order based on lost profits from their criminal enterprise. They cannot, in any legally relevant sense, be irreparably harmed by a court order that makes it more difficult for them to commit crimes.”

Justice Thomas concluded that the Comstock Act makes shipment of mifepristone for use in abortions a federal crime.

Justice Samuel Alito likewise wrote in GenBioPro, Inc. v. Louisiana that “the manufacturers of the drug, including Danco and GenBioPro, are obviously aware of what is going on yet nevertheless supply the drug and reap profits from its felonious use in Louisiana.”

Those are extraordinary words from two Justices of the United States Supreme Court.

Louisiana has already challenged the providers and the shield-law states. I respectfully encourage you to investigate the next question: Does the evidence support additional civil claims or referral for federal investigation under RICO or other federal criminal statutes against any individuals or entities knowingly participating in this interstate activity?

That inquiry should follow the evidence wherever it leads—whether to abortion providers, telemedicine businesses, pharmaceutical manufacturers, package carriers, or public officials.

If you need any assistance, including an expert witness, regarding pregnancy-center operations, medical ethics in women’s reproductive health, abortion-pill practices, the abortion-pill reversal process, the impact on women and babies, and the operation of New York’s pregnancy-care environment, please feel free to reach out.

Thank you for defending Louisiana’s authority to enforce its laws and for defending the U.S. Constitution from those who would seek to violate states’ rights.

God bless,
